DAVIS TRIAL, HALTED BY JUROR'S ILLNESS IS RESUMED TODAY

SLIGHT DAMAGE IS DONE BY SEASON'S COLDEST EVENING

Some Automobiles In Twin Cities Frozen During Night

MERCURY ON UPGRADE NOW

Citizens Prepared To Combat Winter On First Invasion

The temperature here was on the upgrade today, with warmer weather predicted for Friday, after Albany-Decatur had experienced the coldest night of the year. Mrs. A. H. Irons, government observer, stated that last night's minimum was 23 degrees, six degrees below the previous season record. Several weeks ago the mercury dropped to 29 one night. The temperature today at noon was given at 41, showing a rapid rise from last night's low level. Slight damage was reported today as after-effect of the first real cold snap of the year. A few automobiles were reported frozen, one or two water pipes, but citizens had been forewarned against the drop in temperature, and most of them were prepared. Sales of various fluids to prevent automobile radiators from freezing were reported to be heavy at all drug stores, garages and filling stations handling these products.

The cold and the rains which preceded the drop curtailed materially the week's output of cotton. Workers have been unable to make much headway in gathering the staple for several days and ginning is slowing up, according to tabulations made here today.

Cold Wave Broken WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The icy temperatures over-spreading the eastern half of the country will give way to warmer weather Friday and Saturday. Weather bureau reports today showed freezing as far south as Thomasville, Ga., and thermometers registering from 10 to 22 degrees below normal generally east of the Mississippi river.

It will remain cold tonight, except for slightly higher temperatures from Ohio southward to the gulf coast, but the next two days are expected to bring more comfortable weather over all sections of the east.

County Court Is Nearing a Close

The Morgan county court, which has been hard at work for several days, was nearing completion of the docket and, in courthouse circles, it was regarded as possible the court would be able to adjourn this afternoon. Judge William T. Lowe has presided throughout the sessions.

Legislative Call Fully Expected

Call of the legislature in December is fully expected here, according to various expressed views and opinions. Little was said of what action might be taken at that time, but opinion prevails that the legislature will be called both in December and again in January.

BUY AT HOME

Buy-At-Home. Would you forsake a sure thing for a chance? Not much, you'd take the sure shot and pride yourself upon the excellent judgment you had displayed. Why then take a chance on something that looks pretty in pictures, when you can see things even prettier right at home in merchants' windows, see them at fair prices, purchase at once and pay cash or wait thirty days to pay for it? Patronize the home merchant he has just the dress you want at the price you wish to pay in the way you wish to pay for it. Cash stores or credit stores, so long as they are home stores they stand back of the products they sell. They satisfy, you take no chance. Buy-At-Home.

Boys And Girls of Today Better; Ethics Professor Explains Why

BY MILLER HOLLAND
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—(INS)—The youth of a generation or so ago was morally worse than the youth of today in the opinion of Dr. Lynn T. White, professor of social ethics in the San Francisco Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian church. And not only that, Dr. White says, but it is unfair to compare the morals of today's younger generation with those of the generation of 30 years ago.

"It is unspurious, to put it mildly," Dr. White declares, "for us who did not have autos, movies, radios, flying machines and jazz orchestras when we were young, to hurl vitriolic bolts at the boys and girls who are the first generation in history to have these things and who have not yet learned to use them in moderation."

Generation Improved
There is no doubt about it, Dr. White believes, but that the present younger generation is more intelligent, more thoughtful, and cleaner than the generation of 20 years or so ago.

Regarding the much talked of degeneration and wildness among college students, Dr. White says: "The undergraduates in our colleges and universities have already been educated beyond the moral standards of the alumni."

"A clergyman friend of mine confided to me that shortly before he left California to attend the 100th anniversary of his college in the east, he received three circular letters from undergraduate organizations beseeching him not to adorn his person with a hip-pocket flask when he returned for the celebration."

Dr. Arthur Walter Scott, veteran principal of the Girls' High school of San Francisco, agrees with Dr. White—at least in so far as girls are concerned.

The girl of today is an improved article over her sister of yesterday, Dr. Scott told Eddie Boyden, popular San Francisco newspaperman, the other day.

Any man or woman who draws an unfavorable comparison between the "Girls of Today" and the "Girl of Yesterday" is chirping through his chapeau, according to Eddie's version of what Dr. Scott said.

More Problems Today

Dr. Scott continued: "The girl of today has not deteriorated morally, socially or intellectually, as we are so frequently told to believe."

"The girl of today has greater problems to solve and more varied opportunities to embrace than had her mother, who was the school girl when I was teaching twenty-two years ago."

"The girl of today has developed more initiative, more poise, and more purpose than her sister of two score years ago."

"It is true that the girl of today is called upon to encounter more in the way of temptation than was the case with her mother, but, in spite of this condition, she has risen to the occasion and has given a purposeful and hopeful account of herself."

"The girl of today is rendering more effective service in many lines of endeavor that formerly were more or less monopolized by her big brother and never by the girl of twenty years ago."

"You may accept it from me, if my personal contact with girls for twenty-two years means anything, that the mis- of today is a more finished product than the girl of yesterday."

"In the name of all that is fair and honest, I invite all pin-brained critics of the current girl to sneer that off."

An interesting program of entertainment has been provided for the evening hours.

BODY IS FOUND ON RIVER BANK

Stone Tied To Neck, Feet Are Trussed, Is Discovery

CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The body of a man found on the bank of the Ohio river here with the feet trussed together and a stone tied to the neck was identified today as that of Everett Heath, 20, Waynesburg, Ky.

Police believe that wounds found on the neck and head caused death. A post mortem examination will be made by coroner in an effort to confirm belief that the victim was murdered and cast into the river.

Identification was established through Edward Lovelace, Cincinnati, a brother-in-law of the youth. Lovelace told officers that he had come to Cincinnati about two months ago.

HUNTER RETURNED TO C. M. E. CHURCH

Building Plans In View Placed With Bishop Dobbs

Rev. James D. Hunter will continue in leadership of the Central Methodist congregation for another year, according to a decision made late Wednesday by Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs. Building and development plans, in which Rev. Hunter is expected to take a great part, were placed with Bishop Dobbs, bringing his decision to return the pastor for another year.

Assigned to go to Walker Memorial church and with his work only in the formative stage here, a delegation of church members presented those plans to the Methodist bishop, asking that Rev. Hunter be allowed to complete his work here.

News that the pastor will be returned was received with pleasure among the Methodist membership and in business and church circles here. Methodists are planning for the building of a Sunday school unit as the first step in the erection of a handsome edifice and under the guiding hand of Rev. Hunter it is expected that favorable action upon such plans will be gained within a short time.

No report has been made yet by the officials in regard to the promptitude of the payment of taxes, but at the courthouse belief was expressed that the payments were up to the usual standard.

MISUSE OF FUNDS IN POLITICS HIT

Pershing Sees Grave Dangers To Nation In Corruption

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The downfall of the United States will not be far off "if the time ever comes when public offices can be virtually bought and sold either directly or indirectly," General John J. Pershing wartime commander of the American Expeditionary force declared today before a meeting of Kiwanis clubs here.

"In the light of recent events in certain states," he said, "some of our citizens would modify the method of selecting candidates for office. If the present system encourages or permits the contribution of inordinate sums by wealthy candidates or their supporters, it should receive the most careful scrutiny by honest citizens."

"The presumption that large expenditures for campaign purposes may be made without ulterior motives does not appear to be warranted. To sanction the expenditure of excessive amounts of money to secure the nomination of candidates for office would be to exclude unjustly all but the wealth of the country."

Pure Thought League Offers Bill To Congress To Bring Skirt Hem Of Women Down To Their Instep

DENVER, Nov. 11.—(INS)—Chiffon hose, dimpled knees of wax model, little knots of baby ribbon attached to the silky things so dear to the feminine heart, are all right—when alluringly displayed on counter and in windows to beguile and captivate the window-shopper and prospective customer, but once they are wrapped up and carried home, their further display should end in the privacy of one's boudoir.

This is the emphatic declaration of Mrs. Bee J. Hyde and Mrs. Sarah E. Wilkinson, organizers of the Denver chapter of the Universal Pure Thought League, who have as their slogan "Down With the Skirts"

The event will occur on the Saturday evening following Thanksgiving, and will be preceded by a business session beginning at 7 o'clock in the hall used by the Albany council No. 22.

The program will get underway a short time afterward and will include a varied number of events.

Crowds Gathering To Settle Taxes

Crowds continued to gather in the tax-offices at the courthouse today to settle their claims. While many are paying all of their taxes, the greater number are paying the assessment against their automobiles and then their license tax charge. The offices of the assessor, collector and probate judge all were crowded today.

Two Men Held On Robbery Charges

Edgar Moore has been released on $1500 bond on a robbery charge, Morgan county officials announced today. Howard Fitts, held on a similar charge, was reported still in jail.

The charges, it was stated by officials, grew out of allegations of robbery of "Jimmie's Barbecue Stand" on the Bee Line highway.

and their aim, a petition to Congress to adopt a law inflicting severe punishment on every flapper in the country whose skirts are higher than the instep.

Murder, assault, suicide, and other misdemeanors, now sweeping the country are attributed to strong drink by some, but to these two women it is the length, or rather the shortness of the skirt that is the foundation of most crimes.

"It's getting so," Mrs. Wilkinson declared, "that a girl is not safe on the streets any more and the bill we are now drafting to be presented to Congress means just what it says. 'Down with Skirts' doesn't mean their abolition, it means make them lower."

Dreams of Eight Years Ago Become Realities of Today As Veterans Scan the Pages of the Past

Eight years ago—a muddy, lousy trench, the war ended—momentarily. Thoughts of home, how soon? The year 1926 and the veteran of the world war scans the pages of his life's history, where was he eight years ago when the killers were called off? Oh, yes, of course—Jim, Jack and Tom were in the dug-out that cold night, the tense strain of the years was broken at last. Those lined faces, he recalls them now as he looks through a maze of smoke, curling from his pipe. He reads the evening paper, but he doesn't see much there, only the same story of killing, court action, automobile accidents. He turns again to the past, the past he hoped he would not remember, but now as he looks back he finds happiness in the remembrance of the fellows who fought, bled and died at his side. Cultured gentlemen, the riff of the streets, unpolished country fellows, youths with gray hairs, they were all one in the uniform, all bent upon one purpose, all thinking of the business of war. Good fellows, they, he wonders where they are today.

Would he go again? Say, Buddy, was that war all business, will America be challenged again by a foreign foe, or a foe at home? That is his answer. The American of today is described as a peace-loving individual in pursuit of the dollar, other years have found him apparently without interest in the affairs of the world, let other nations quarrel over their lands, let them cut each other's throats, it can't be helped. But, let no foe, at home or in foreign land, dare America.

Americans all, they were once, Americans all they can be again, if necessary. May it be the will of God that such events will not come to pass, but America has never been throttled by others who thought they were right; America has not fought upon trumped-up principles, she has fought for God, America and the right; she can do so again, calling her millions from comfortable firesides, the same patriotism which singed the souls of the first Americans is alive today. Courts, governmental disagreements, bootleg wars, physical softness, nothing when the call comes. America has been supreme through the force of her fighting men, she will remain supreme through that same force.

Thoughts of today are vastly different from those thoughts of eight years ago, events are vastly different, yet the same men are thinking those thoughts and taking part in the events—America is safe for Democracy.

MORE EVIDENCE OF DEFENDANT'S GOOD CHARACTER GIVEN

Visitor In Home of the Former Warden on Stand Thursday

DAVIS ABSENT DAY KNOX DIED

Family In Magic City During Greater Part Of Entire Day

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Trial of Charles R. Davis, former warden at Flat Top prison, charged with the murder of James Knox, convict, in August, 1924, halted Wednesday afternoon because of the illness of Archie Brown, a juror, was resumed today with the defense offering a number of character testimonials in behalf of the defendant.

Veniremen Brown was suffering from a fever Wednesday afternoon and court convened with instruction that the jurymen be given careful attention. Mr. Brown today was much improved and was able to join the 11 others who are to pass on the case.

Among the first witnesses this morning were Mrs. Annie Walters, of Elba, Coffee county, who told of visiting the Davis home at the time Knox died; Judge John M. Loftin, of Enterprise, Coffee county, and J. P. "Pat" White, sheriff of Dale county, both of whom testified to the good reputation of Davis. Other witnesses attacked the testimony of Wiley Pugh, star witness for the state.

Mrs. Walters said she was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Davis at their home in Flat Top when Knox died. She arrived at the Davis home several days before the death and was there two or three days afterward. The witness said that on the day of Knox's death, August 14, Mrs. Davis, the defendant, their son, Charles, and herself went to Birmingham, leaving early in the morning and returning shortly before dark.

"We went to Birmingham that morning and returned that afternoon," Mrs. Walters testified. "Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Charles Davis, Jr., and myself left Flat Top about 9 a. m. We remained together practically all day and went back in the afternoon, arriving in Flat Top about dark."

Mrs. Walters added that upon their arrival in Flat Top, they left Mr. Davis at the office and went directly to the house. She did not testify to any of the circumstances of Knox's death, but her testimony tended to corroborate the denial of Cecil Houston, Wednesday, that he had telephoned Warden Davis on the day of Knox's death and informed him of Knox's unwillingness to dig coal.

Judge Loftin, former judge of the Coffee county court, and now a state senator-elect, said he had known Davis for 28 years and that his general reputation is good. The same declaration was made by Sheriff White.

Len F. Greer, of Anniston, former chairman of the state convict board, was another character witness for the defendant this morning. Mr. Greer is the father of the late Robert Greer, who was slain in Spavinaw, Okla., several weeks ago and for which crime Mrs. Anita Greer, the latter's wife, now is charged with murder.

Former Governor Charles M. Henderson was called by the defense attorneys as a character witness for Davis, but he did not answer when his name was called. Governor Henderson was one of several prominent officials of Alabama to be summoned by the defense for character testimonials. Former Governor Thomas E. Kilby, of Anniston, was on hand to testify Wednesday afternoon but did not actually take the stand when Juror Brown's indisposition necessitated the temporary adjournment of the court.

Governor Kilby's testimony that the defendant's reputation was good was admitted by both state and defense and was placed in the record.

For Head Colds

THERE are many ways to treat a cold in the head, but only one DIRECT way, and that is with vapors that can be inhaled.

The easiest and most satisfying way to get these vapors is to sniff a little Vicks VapoRub well up the nose, or melt a little in a spoon or tin cup and inhale.

The medicated vapors reach immediately into every corner of the air passages, soothing and healing with every breath.

For other forms of cold troubles just rub Vicks over the throat and chest at bedtime. It is then the body heat which releases these vapors.

BIRMINGHAM GIRL FIRES AT ROBBER

Holdup Man Is Sent Scurrying At The Point of Pistol

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Police are investigating a report made to headquarters today by 219-year-old Lucile Hooten, of 219 North 17th street, to the effect that she shot and put to rout a hold-up man who entered the Hooten home shortly before eight o'clock this morning.

Miss Hooten, employee of the Hirsch millinery store, said that she was in her bedroom, having just completed dressing, when she heard a noise in the kitchen. She was alone in the house, her parents being out of town.

Her suspicions aroused, she took her father's revolver from a drawer and went downstairs.

Entering the kitchen, she says, she was confronted by a snarling man who was armed with a revolver. Without waiting for her to comply with the request, the man pointed a revolver at her and mis-fired three times. Miss Hooten then shot at the man three times, point-blank. The intruder fled through the back door, apparently hit as he was crying with pain.

Miss Hooten said that a neighbor saw a man dash out the kitchen door and through a garden.

PROSPECT BRIGHT FOR COTTON AID

Finance Corporation Goes Into Session At The Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Representatives of the newly organized Cotton Financing Corporation discussed today with the federal farm loan board plans for disposing of this year's record crop. The conference also was attended by Eugene Meyer, chairman of the committee on cotton appointed by the president and by the president of the intermediate credit banks and states which are involved in the marketing of the cotton crop.

It was estimated today by Chairman A. C. Williams, of the farm loan board that it would be necessary to market this year's crop over a period of 18 months and he warned that this also would necessitate a considerable reduction in the acreage of next year's crop. "There never before has been such determination on the part of everyone concerned—farmers, bankers and others—to put across a program of constructive agriculture in the South," Secretary Jardine declared today after a conference on the cotton situation with Mr. Meyer.

The secretary said the relief of the cotton farmer would be begun soon through distribution of money through finance corporations operating under the intermediate credit banks. Prospects never have been so indicative of a permanent solution of the problems of the farmer of the South and through diversified crops and cooperative marketing, the secretary asserted a permanent solution could be put into operation. A conference of extension workers of the Southern states will be held in Washington next week, he said, and details of the program worked out.

COURT ADHERENCE HAS RESERVATION

Conditions of Senate To Govern Action Is Coolidge Edict

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 11.—(AP)—President Coolidge served formal notice here today that the United States will adhere to the World Court only on conditions laid down by the Senate. The position of the chief executive, who from the first of his administration, has urged American membership in the court, was made clear in an Armistice Day speech on world problems, and called formally, for the first time, for conscription of capital as well as man-power in time of war.

The address was in dedication of the Liberty memorial, erected by the people of this city in memory of its citizens who served in the World War. Delivered at the hour when eight years ago the armistice went into effect, it was devoted to a discussion of problems arising from the war, with a re-stating of the position of the Washington government on many questions of world interest. Mention was made of national antagonism against this country.

PARIS.—Garters are no longer secrets in this year of 1926. The young woman of today is ready to let the whole world know about her shoes and stockings and she is even going as far as her garters.

Smart women are often seen wearing their garters below their knees these days, for they are no longer regarded as slightly improper objects, having developed into an ornamental rather than purely utilitarian item of dress. The little things intended to hold in the stockings are no longer limited to bands of plain elastic or little more decorative affair ending in colored tassels. They are covered with gold tissues or colored ribbon cut like a strap and fastened with a buckle of diamonds or paste, according to one's means. The very smartest fashion, by the way, is to wear garters which exactly match the hose.

Garter buckles are coming into fashion again. A lovely pair seen in a shop on the rue St. Honore has trays full of garter buckles in every shape under the sun.

WEAK, RESTLESS

Tennessee Lady Had So Little Strength She "Couldn't Get Around." Took Cardui With Benefit.

Gassaway, Tenn.—"I wasn't able to do any of my work, and it seemed like I had so little strength I just couldn't get around," says Mrs. Frank Murphy, who lived near here. "My mother knew of the good Cardui could do, so she told me to take it. I sent and got a bottle, and seemed like all the time I grew stronger. "I had been suffering with pains in my sides all the time, and Cardui helped this wonderfully. I needed a tonic for female trouble, and Cardui just fitted the need. I was awfully restless and could not sleep at night, but after taking two bottles of Cardui I could sleep like a top. I got along all right, and I know it was due to Cardui. I can certainly recommend it to women suffering from women's troubles. "My present health is just fine." Thousands of women have written to tell how Cardui relieved them of pain and suffering, and helped them to improve in health and strength. Cardui is perfectly harmless, being an extract of mild-acting herbs, and contains no dangerous drugs or harmful ingredients. Sold everywhere. NC-174

'Scantiness' Of Women's Dress Hurts Business

ATLANTA, Nov. 11.—(INS)—Scantiness in women's dress is causing uneasiness not only among the reformers but also to business men and students of the nation's commerce.

Sale of petticoats has fallen off to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars in the last year or two, playing havoc in that industry and many firms whose rating went into millions, have been forced into bankruptcy, according to figures revealed here by L. W. Bates, secretary of the Outdoor Advertising Company, New York.

The shoe business, according to Bates, has also been hurt by automobiles. Approximately 20,000,000 pairs of shoes less a year are being worn because people who drive cars wear out fewer shoes, he claims.

Junior Order Plans Ceremonial At Priceville

Albany council number 22 will present a flag and Bible to the Priceville school Sunday.

Meivin Hutson will make the presentation of the flag for the Junior Order, and Rev. W. D. Barnes, pastor of the Ninth Street Methodist church, will present the Bible.

It is understood that the Priceville community is expecting a large crowd and is making arrangements to entertain as usual by having dinner on the ground.

All members of the Junior Order will meet at Albany council hall over the postoffice at nine o'clock to marshal for the occasion. O. E. Peck will have charge of the hall. Every member of the local order is expected to attend and to be present on time.

Women Constantly Going Into New Fields Of Work

The return of a woman from photographing wild animal life in the Orient would have been front page news for days.

Today a well-known New York woman returns from the Island of Bali, where she was unusually successful in this work, and her arrival gets only a line in the newspaper.

The modern woman, when strong and healthy, is proving so successful in any field she chooses to enter, that the world is no longer surprised at anything she does.

Thousands of women are now using St. Joseph's G. F. P. for that purpose for which it is intended when they feel themselves becoming weakened and run-down, and are so delighted with their experiences using this vegetable compound they are coming right out in public to tell other women of it.

Mrs. H. C. Braswell, 631 39th St., Birmingham, Ala., says: "I am certainly glad I started using St. Joseph's G. F. P. This medicine is just what I need and now I am using it, I am gaining in weight and strength every day."

Game Warden Is Visitor To Court

C. M. Harwell, popular district game warden, returned to his home in Huntsville this afternoon, after having been in attendance at sessions of the county court here this week.

Mr. Harwell stated that some misunderstanding seems to have arisen in regard to the necessity for having licenses to hunt all game. He declared that there are no exceptions and that a license is required to hunt any and all game, including rabbits.

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily
 November 11, 1912.

The Vanderbilt football team will spend the night at the Lyons hotel here Friday evening, preceding their game with Auburn in Birmingham Saturday.

O. C. Hollingsworth, who has been quite ill for sometime, is convalescent.

Mrs. A. J. Harris was hostess to Band number one of the First Methodist church Tuesday afternoon.

A. F. Rebman, of Courtland, was a visitor here yesterday.

Alan Jemison and W. G. Von Bruskirk, of Birmingham, were here today on business.

THE PLAY GOES ON AND TIME CONTINUES TO SHIFT THE SCENES.

Eight years ago and the scene most any community in America . . . bells ring, whistles blow, people cheer and tears of happiness roll down the cheeks. Armistice Day . . . the war is ended. Peace has returned. Brave hearts, somewhere over there, in the blackened ruins of war, are safe and will be coming home soon. Fulfillment of dreams, answers to prayers. Bottles are opened, toasts are given, old vintage and new are consumed by revelers as if anything could add to the positive intoxication of joy.

Streets are lined, tramp, tramp, thousands of marching feet. Soldiers, home on furlough, from the camps; sailors off the ships, their white and blue uniforms conspicuous in the crowds, lending color to the whole. Marines, bubbling over with the reflected lustre of their glories "over there." Stores closed or only half-heartedly open. Confetti in the air. Drums beat. The doors of churches open, where some go to render thanks to Him from whom all blessings flow.

Automobiles dart through the disordered traffic. Laws suspended. What need of law . . . OUR nation, OUR country. U. S. means us, you and me and all Americans. Pistols brought forth and sharp reports add strength to the noise of human voices grown weak with cheering. Guns explode. Hymns above the din and clamor.

Into the cities the people pour . . . the natural desire to find other people to share their happiness. Extras appear. No one reads them . . . no one cares . . . what more news could there be? The armistice has been signed. Flags everywhere . . . American, English, French, Belgian, but the world's bedecked in Old Glory. Salutes as the crowds pass the Stars and Stripes . . . reverence and love.

A crippled soldier . . . his crutches wave a glad greeting too. Too early yet for him to know what peace will bring to him. The shrill screams of school children, hardly realizing . . . but joyous in the knowledge brother or daddy will be coming home. Blue and grey clad veterans, arms entwined, tears in their eyes, brotherly love in their hearts . . . Americans all.

Ships in the harbor in holiday dress. The world safe for democracy. America the saviour . . . God be praised. Here and there the loved ones of those for whom the armistice came too late . . . but glad for the sake of the other million parents.

Noise, more noise, shouts and more shouts, din, confusion, disorder . . . a nation on a happiness spree . . . the greatest spontaneous outburst in history. Armistice Day 1918.

November 11, eight years later. Armistice Day anniversary. Shouts ring out . . . bootleg war men are trampled in a mad hunt for gold. Streets are lined . . . people hurrying to assignments in the marts of commerce. Whistles blow and belated workers hurry to punch a time clock. Speakers in the schools urge patriotism on the younger generation. Flags fly . . . occasionally. Some churches open for prayer by those who remember.

Legionnaires, in nicely pressed uniform, spick and span, march in parade . . . occasionally. Others bend over account books and give little thought to the dirty trench they held eight years ago. Extras are issued by newspapers . . . eagerly bought. Has Aimee's raucous man been found, has the prison warden's trial been ended, has the "pig woman" testified, has another election fraud been found, or what have you?

Football teams pause in action to give reverence to the fallen heroes. Another moment and the referee calls them into action.

Washington threatens two newly-elected senators. Bottles are opened surreptitiously and vile concoctions are imbibed . . . invigoration . . . inebriation . . . stultification. Coal to order. Groceries to buy. Automobiles taking their toll of dead and injured. Stabbings, shootings, murders, arson. Justice busy trying to keep step with crime. No longer "We Americans," but "you fellows" now. Oaths . . . gossip. Debt wrangles with allies. Hate. Bridge parties, teas, dances. Thrills, more thrills. Radio, airplane. Spiritualism and materialism . . . rampant, paradoxical as it may seem. Girls' knees. Bickering, trading, trafficking. Pacifists urge disarmament. Patriots urge adequate protection. Balloon pants, balloon tires. Sheiks and shebas, molly-coddles and bandits . . . a strange mixture.

Time shifts the scenes. The idealism of 1918 cannot be recaptured. Time plays but a single performance.

AGE-HERALD CONTRIBUTOR OPPOSES THE PLAYING OF SCHOOL FOOTBALL.

The following letter appeared in a recent issue of the Birmingham Age-Herald:

To the Editor of The Age-Herald:
 I read with much interest Professor Benson's two letters on schools, in The Age-Herald. Both are rich in food for thought. The last one voiced the sentiment of every liberal minded person.

Parents as a rule don't want their children to play ball the way it is played now. One father told the principal of a high school that he didn't want his boy to play. The teacher told him the exercise was healthful. This boy walks nearly two miles and helps gather the crops the first months of school. He didn't need ball playing for size and strength.

A widowed mother used the advantage the law gives to keep her minor boys from playing. This is the way two parents solved the ball problem. After they become of age the parents have no recourse.

One boy's neck was twisted till it was almost broken. For two or three weeks he couldn't turn his head. This was no accident. There are 22,000,000 school children in this country and 19,000,000 of them are diseased.

Ball playing will hinder instead of helping give back to the race its needed physique. Building is what the sick need and the most ignorant knows ball playing is helping to kill out the race.

It is hard to understand why the school management is in the hands of a few whose every whim is carried out for the majority who know better. Why not have democracy in our school management.

Ball playing as it is now is a long step backward toward the arena age where man and beast fought for the entertainment of spectators.

I have known teachers to offer grades to girls to attend a ball game when mothers of the girls would argue over the matter.

Missionary teachers have carried ball playing to the heathen along with our language.
 MRS. JULIA RUSSELL.

Winfield, Ala.

The Daily disagrees with the writer that all liberal minded persons would favor the abolition of these inter-scholastic games, particularly football. The Daily will prove its own "liberal mindedness" by agreeing that Mrs. Russell has just as much right to her opinion of the matter as has this newspaper, but The Daily certainly does not subscribe to the doctrine that athletic competition between students should be relegated to the discard.

Mrs. Russell speaks with an authoritative air, but fails to lay a predicate for her expert testimony, when she asserts that "ball playing will hinder instead of helping give back to the race its needed physique."

Her charge would be strenuously objected to, no doubt, by many who might qualify under the title of expert.

Nearly every year, toward the end of the football season, when the usual toll of bumps and bruises has been taken, objection is voiced to the playing of football by high school students. Every year, however, the objections are met by others who believe that the game offers youngsters opportunity for development, physically and morally. Every year the interest manifest on the part of the community becomes greater.

The playing of football is not without its physical dangers. The man-to-man conflict of wit against wit, of strength against strength, of body against body undoubtedly creates risks which must be taken by those who participate in the sport. However, the risks on the football field are not greater than those taken in many other businesses and amusements. Playing football is not a fractional part so dangerous as riding or driving an automobile, yet few parents would demand of their sons and daughters that they refrain from use of automobiles for pleasure or profit.

The Age-Herald contributor rather insinuates that the group in charge of administration of school affairs in Alabama is insistent on students playing on the athletic teams of the various schools. The Daily knows nothing whatever of this matter, but were the school heads doing that very thing, this newspaper would not find it within its heart to censure them for it.

The Daily must admit a degree of ignorance in regard to "those arena days." Its only knowledge about them has been gained from occasional historical accounts, which lacked much of the completeness of the present-day reports on athletic meetings. However, The Daily has been represented at quite a few modern events, (and hopes that Mrs. Russell has been present also) and must insist that it discovers a few, at least, discrepancies in the conduct of the early gladiators' contest and the modern football match. Given, even, the imagination in reality which many people ascribe to all newspapers, The Daily fears it would have trouble reconciling the two.

In the course of some years of reporting for its readers athletic games participated in by north Alabama, and other students, the observers of this newspaper have witnessed a good many acts which were ungentlemanly and unbecoming representatives of the school, attended by the offenders, but considering the total, the ratio is small.

These observers have seen, as well, innumerable instances of complete self-effacement for the sake of the team and the school. They have seen hundreds of starry-eyed youngsters, aglow with a burning spirit of "all for my school and nothing for myself" forget their momentary physical bruises in an eager fight for their institutions, regretting they cannot do more for the school, which has become a symbol of all they cherish. Starry-eyed young crusaders they are. Can this influence possibly be bad for young America? One might as well dismiss Nathan Hale's avowal of fidelity to his country as the raving of a spectacular citizen gone mad on sensationalism.

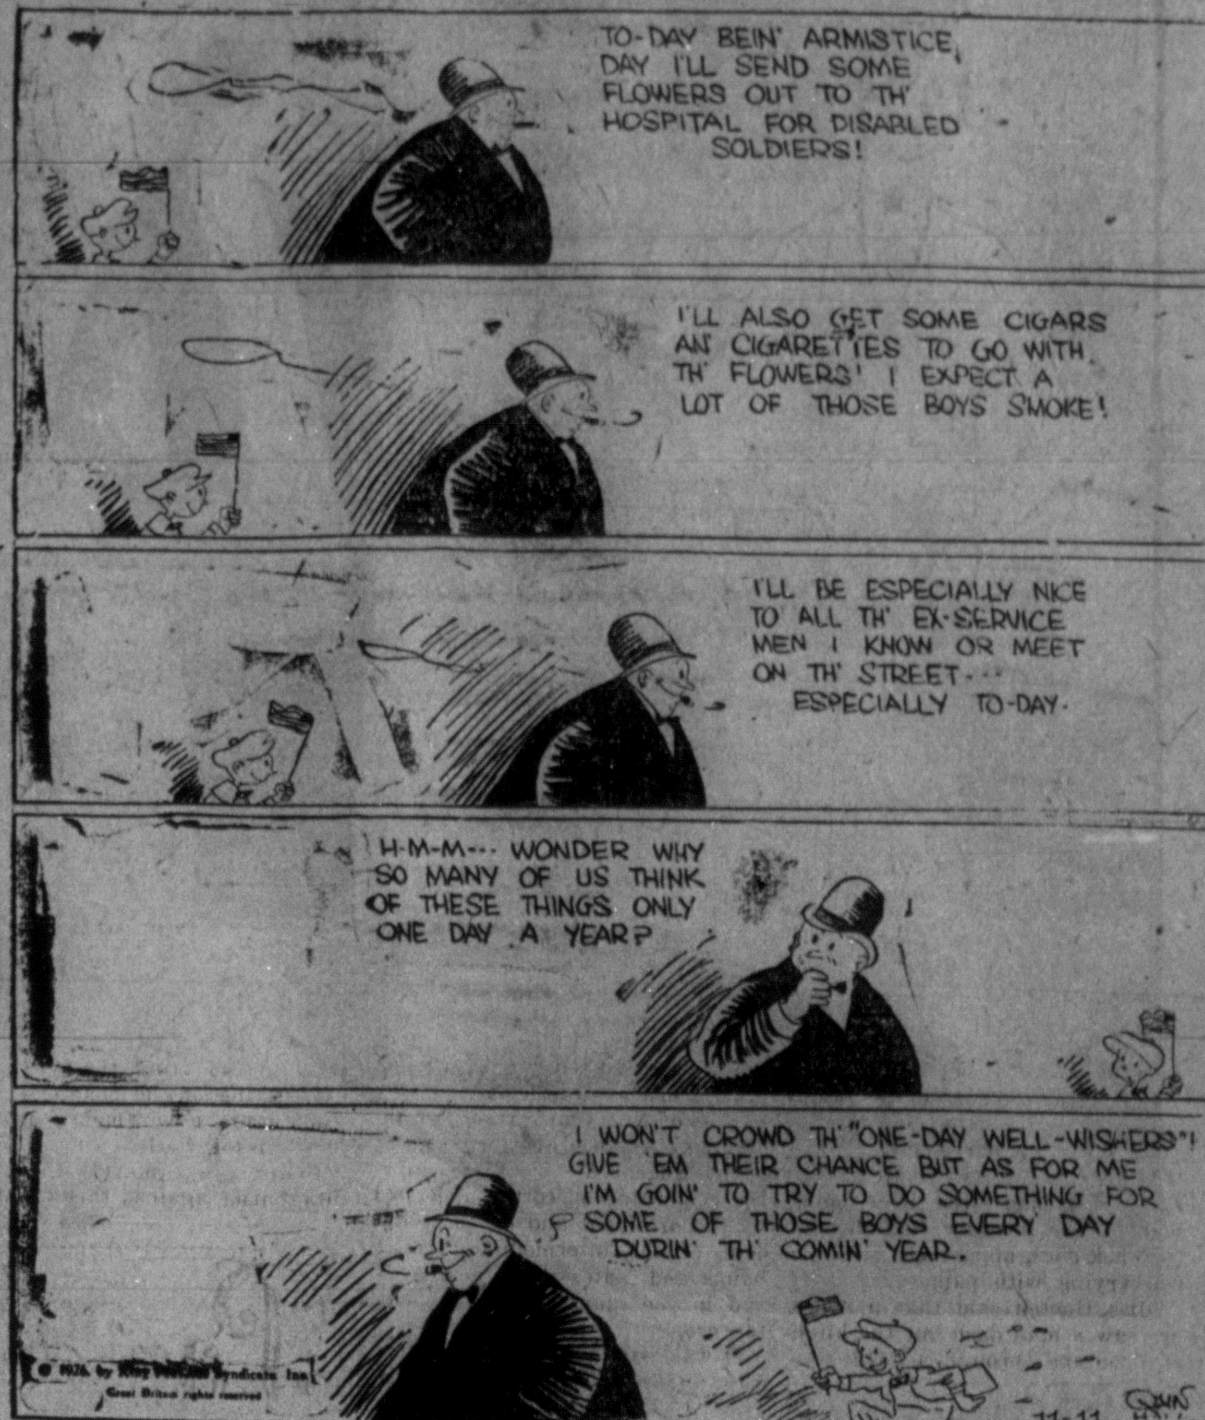

The Daily is afraid the Age-Herald's contributor has missed the finest part of the American football game. She evidently has seen only the matching of students against each other in physical combat. Perhaps she has missed entirely the spirit behind all this. Perhaps she is not familiar, as many others are not, with the desire to serve which causes young America to go through the grind of training session, the put up with the effort of monotonous practice sessions, to surrender many personal privileges in the matter of diet and amusement in order that his physical being may be fit for the contest.

Perhaps she has not observed the comradery of the varsity squad, nor witnessed one of those tense moments just before the game when service for the school becomes the clarion call to endeavor, nor seen the tears shed over losses, nor heard the shouts acclaiming victory.

It is possible the writer has not analyzed the lesson constantly held before these youngsters by that stern old task-master of the gridiron that, when time is called in the game or in their mature life, it will not be a question of whether you win or lose, but how you played the game that counts.

Perhaps the writer has missed some of these things, else surely she would not desire to take away from the rapidly developing youth of America those games which make for unselfishness and valor.

CREAM CHECKS LOOKS GOOD

By J. C. FORD, County Agent

A few farmers in Morgan county have been milking cows and shipping cream for some time. With cotton prices at the present discouraging level, the checks for the cream look very attractive.

In the spring of 1925, J. H. Russell of the Mount Tabor community began shipping cream from four or five cows. During the present year they have milked from four to seven cows, possibly averaging between five and six. Their cream sales for ten months ran over $400, and bought feed amounted to $435. The difference, $25, is the farm income received from these cows for the ten months. This income of about $6.00 a week above expenditures come in very handy for meeting running expenses of the farm.

In addition to the cash received, the skim milk fed to hogs and chickens cut the feed bill and added to the production of eggs and pork, and the manure applied to the thinner parts of the cotton land made up for any loss of time or acreage that might otherwise have been devoted to cotton. In other words, this farm made as much cotton as it would have made if no cows had been kept, and the $25.00 a month was just that much extra money.

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 11. (Special).—The production of pork on a ton-litter plan as being practiced by farmers throughout Alabama this year is both practical and profitable, as shown by a test completed by the Animal Husbandry Department of the Agricultural College at Auburn.

Starting last spring when farmers were starting their ton-litter demonstrations, the Experiment Station took a litter of nine grade Duroc-Jersey pigs which were farrowed April 26 and made them weigh 21.08 pounds when 180 days old. The feed cost per 100 pounds of gain was $6.81, and the hogs were sold after being shown at the State Fair at Montgomery at $12.75 per hundred pounds or a total of $268.77.

The pigs were weaned at eight weeks of age, at which time the lot weighed 375 pounds. Figuring the cost which included a bear fee of $500, and the support of this sow for four months while dry and two months while suckling the litter, the project returned a profit of $125.19.

In reporting this test F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman, said: "The pigs were fed a mixture of 60 pounds of corn meal, 32 pounds of wheat shorts, and 8 pounds of taankage, with a mineral mixture consisting of equal parts of charcoal, slaked lime, and salt. The grain mixture cost 2 cents per pound and the litter was charged with 6,418 pounds costing $128.36; bear fee $500; mineral mixture 11 pounds at 2 cents per pound, 22 cents; pasture (1 acre) $4.00; 1,200 pounds of skim milk at 50 cents per hundred or $6.00. The milk was fed to the litter after weaning to get them started better on the regular grain mixture. The total cost amounted to $143.58 or $6.81 per hundred pounds of gain.

"The results obtained compare with results secured in tests at other stations and those of many hog faddists enrolled in the state pen-litter contest during the past year."

"The ton-litter method, which is nothing more than making a single litter of pigs weigh a ton or more at six months of age by proper feeding and management, has brought about a decided change in hog rearing practices in Alabama, as well as other states."

FARMER'S LIFE SPAN CAN BE STRETCHED

Do you realize what sacrifices are made to feed the people of the cities?

All the perishable food stuffs are carted miles over terrible roads and loaded into cars or motor trucks in the middle of the night. No matter what the weather is, you expect to find the bottle of milk on the threshold when you get up in the morning.

Neither rain, nor snow, nor heat, nor gloom of night, to quote Herodotus, can stay the progress of the carts, wagons and vans moving the food into the cities. In drizzle, fog, wind, nipping air, as well as in sunshine and blistering heat, the farmer picks apples, digs the potatoes, pulls the beans, plows the fields, cultivates the corn, feeds the pigs, milks the cows and does the thousand and one other things necessary to supply the food for a nation.

Too many times these sacrifices are made at the expense of unnecessary disregard of the health. Farmers think they can endure anything. I have already indicated that I think they do endure everything. But it is irresponsible for the farmer to take unnecessary risks.

Wet feet, cold hands, chilled body, hurried meals, little leisure, and less entertainment—here are a few things you eat too much grease, or because you neglect yourself.

Give thought to these suggestions, good friend, and bear in mind that they come from one of your own folks.

How To Wind Up.
 No Talk Then Action.
 See Cuba, Then Invest.
 Is Satan A Liar?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE. (Copyright, 1926, by The Star Co., For Albany-Decatur Daily).

In offering Mr. Brisbane's daily editorials The Daily does not necessarily concur with his opinions, but offers them as the sentiments of the highest paid editorial writer in this country.

TOMORROW, President Coolidge will dedicate a great war memorial in Kansas City. The monument, costing $2,000,000, consists of two fine buildings and a shaft of 216 feet high, flanked by three high, massive walls. The President will make a good speech. As usual, many will hear it on the radio. It might end thus, "Peace is beautiful, and can be made safe only by keeping ready for war. This memorial shaft points to a sky in which we have no air fleet and it points to a great danger."

ITALY'S new laws defending the fascist government are as severe as laws with which the czar protected his person, vainly. Hard labor in the Italian penal colonies is the punishment for talking or writing against the government or its policies, or assailing the national credit.

HISTORY shows that when you take away free expression of opinion you take away the safety valve. If men can't talk they will act. Therefore Britain lets them talk all they please. Mussolini takes the other course, an interesting experiment for this century.

OKLAHOMA is proud because her unused coal will supply the state for 26,000 years more.

But, 26,000 years hence or 260,000 years hence, coal will be used for heat and power as little as whale oil is now used for light. Men used to wonder how they would read when whales died out. We shall have to go back to candles, they said. But they went ahead to kerosene and electric light.

THE important wealth is fertile soil, and intelligent humans on it. Cuba, probably, leads the earth in soil fertility. Her great sugar cane fields go on furnishing cane forever, no replanting as in Hawaii and elsewhere.

And by the way, Cuba, in a few weeks will have wiped out all traces of the big wind. Havana is back to normal already and ready for visitors. Don't do without seeing Cuba, and if you have money to invest, take it with you, wonderful chances are there. Spain, by the way, gives to Cuba special tariff advantages. This country might well do the same.

ON SUNDAY, Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, unofficially kidnapped recently, now officially prosecuted, talked face to face to the greatest crowd she ever drew. Thousands stood in the streets outside her temple.

All sympathized with her, many unconsciously, were interested in her recent adventures. SHE had promised to name

"the biggest liar in the city," and named the devil. The devil is a tempter and a deceiver, but is he a liar? You read, in the book of Job, how "the sons of God came to present themselves before the Lord, and Satan came also among them." When the Lord said to Satan, "Whence comest thou?" Satan answered truthfully. And he kept his word, when he promised not to kill Job. He only afflicted him with boils, killed his sons and daughters, oxen, asses, etc.

Satan is vicious but not a hypocrite or liar. That he leaves to some that use him profitably in their business.

STALIN, at this moment boss of Russia, says America is the great world danger, succeeding Britain, as imperial world power.

The colored man, asked to change a $20 bill, said, "I can't, but I thank you for the compliment." That's what Uncle Sam says to Stalin.

This country would be in no position to fight Haiti or Guatemala if either had 2,000 well equipped fighting planes. You cannot dominate the world with mere dollars.

DR. BUTLER, head of Columbia university, says the republican party will "follow the ships into oblivion, unless it takes the righteous side of the great moral and political issue, prohibition."

Dr. Butler wants republicans to turn wet. But if he did, the Y. M. C. A., the Methodist church, and some other denominations, the south that wants alcohol kept from the colored man, northern capital that wants prohibition because it prevents successful strikes, farmers, satisfied with cider for themselves and prohibition for farm hands, all these and more would hurt the grand old party far more than wishful wishes for light wine and beer could hurt them.

FRIENDS of prohibition are desperate, fighting in earnest. Foes of prohibition are only half in earnest. Already prohibition has become more of a religious fight than a political fight.

DR. BUNDESON, Chicago's health commissioner, says human life in big cities, would last seven years longer, on the average, if nerve destroying noises were eliminated.

We think we are "used" to a certain noise, but use up as much energy conquering noise, crowding it out of the brain, as in doing real work. Millions of brains are cut down 30 to 50 per cent in efficiency by noise. Absence of noise, means greater efficiency, less wear in machines. But men pay no attention to their own machinery, worn away by noise, every day.

And to complain of noises is considered effeminate. If unnecessary noise were accurately classified with assault and battery, life would be longer and better.

The Views of Others

ABOUT WEEVILS

One hears a lot of talk on the street nowadays about times being harder than ever before.

Of course we know that a man who has been getting a hundred dollars or more for a bale of cotton feels mighty poor when he receives only thirty or forty dollars for the same quantity.

That's natural. No doubt the collections are slow, as merchants complain.

No doubt some folks will have to be helped over the hill into the next crop season, but there are always some in that fix, no matter how good times seem to others.

But to say this country is in the worst shape in its history doesn't seem reasonable.

Are we worse off than in 1914, when growers could not get even a bid on their cotton?

Are we worse off than in 1920 when the bottom fell out?

We do not think so, and we find many who agree with us.

There is more money in the country than there was in either of the years mentioned.

There have been good crops of corn, potatoes, peanuts and sugar cane raised. Those who are fortunate enough to have pecan groves will reap an abundant harvest.

To borrow a smile from our medical friends, we would say that the patient is painfully, but not seriously hurt.

The country has been pinched a bit, but will quickly recover—all the more quickly if folks junk their long faces and gloomy talk. We feel poor right now, but it, to a very considerable extent, is a state of mind rather than of fact.

—Samson Ledger.

Somebody has suggested that every farmer in the South ought to go out and get him a barrel full of boll weevils and feed them through the winter. Then if there is any indication that as much cotton is being planted next year as this, they can turn 'em

Bill Grimm's Progress H.C. WITWER

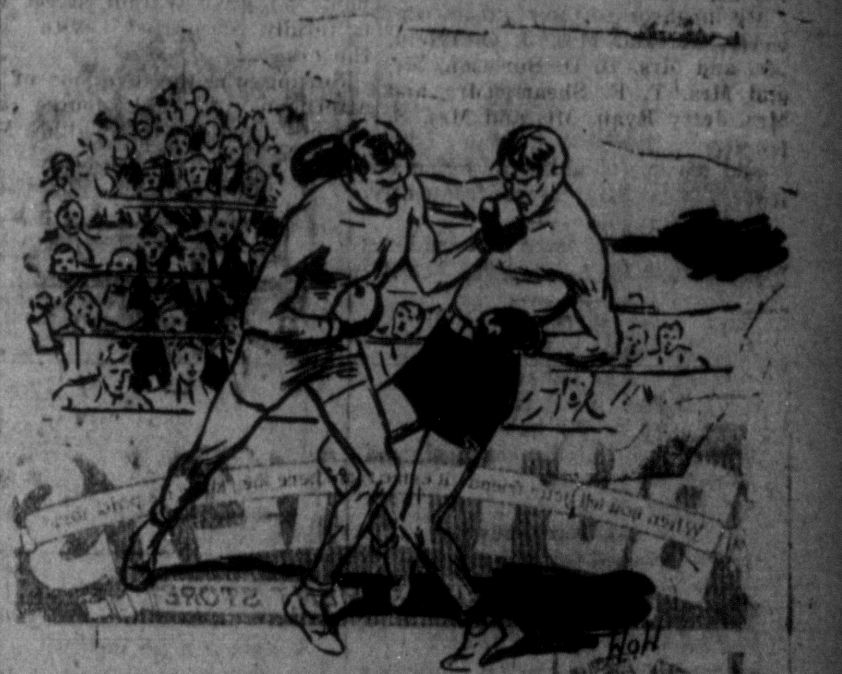

Copyright, 1926, by Collier's Weekly and G. P. Putnam Sons
"Bill Grimm's Progress" is a picturization by Film Booking Office of America, Inc. (F. B. O.) of H. C. Witwer's stories of the same name.

SYNOPSIS
Bill Grimm comes to New York to make his fortune and becomes a newspaper editor under the tutelage of Butch Ford. Pansy Pilkington has also come to New York and finally gets a position in the Folio. Jack Fairfax hounds Bill, but Bill cuts a wide swath in the fight game. Barbara Baxter, Bill's fiancée, a federal detective, gets a position as stenographer in Philip Hartford's office.

I'd made up my mind to give Barbara my own four-carat diamond, reset in a Tiffany mounting. Measuring this would be my last spending orgy for some time to come. I don't matter how brown!

When I got back that night to the inn where I worked, I managed to get Barbara's name on the phone and found that Barbara had been called out of town "on business with her employer." This information put me all out of gear and to me was the tip-off that Barbara's wealthy boss had beaten my time! So I not only went to see Pansy Pilkington open in the Folio, but I took her to supper afterwards at the swellest night club on Broadway.

I got it with a smash in the morning paper. All over the front page was the startling news that Philip Hartford had been pinched by government coppers, charged with a big stock swindle! There was no mention of Barbara Baxter, but a rush of brains to the head.

showed me at once why she took that job! Dressing as fast as a steam train, she plucked up to her apartment and found me in a state of shock.

"You took a chance on the reaction I'd get and was greatly relieved when Barbara acted genuinely glad to see me. I'd like to know on my guess—she'd been ordered to go to work for Hartford to get the goods on him."

When I told her I'd bought a tea parlor, she was highly interested and full of questions. After breakfast I took her over to see it. With Barbara in ye shoppes, then knock-out waitresses of mine was just so many girls!

"Barbara," I says, "why not turn in your head to the government right now and take charge of this place for me?"

"Yes, Bill, I will!" she says softly. "Besides," she adds, "a quick little smile, 'an engaged girl should not associate with criminals. I shall try hard, Bill, to make this delightful shop a success!'"

Well, at last the night of the big Christmas benefit vaudeville and boxing show rolled around. Me and Pete Oliver was scheduled to step in the ring at ten o'clock, but I took Barbara down early with her aunt, and soon they were seated ringside.

The scantly clothed Pansy slipped into the ring surrounded by a hot jazz orchestra and tore off her now famous Charleston to applause which split the roof.

Pete Oliver was already in his corner when I climbed through the ropes. Butch Ford, Left Hook O'Brien, and Shifty Jones to get him, round or less to a decision.

Pete Oliver was a great hand, and the gallery howled for him to get to work on my nose and chin. But I wasn't going to be marked up by this big ape and that heak of mine cost too much and looked too good to take chances with!

Oliver knew all about my nose and changed his regular tactics by forcing the fighting from the first bell. He stabbed at my face with his long left, but I went into a shell and covered up, content to let him do the leading. He began bulking me around the ring, landing a right uppercut which made me change feet and I dived into a clinch where he immediately brought the heel of his glove over my nose. The crowd roared—half approval and half hisses—and when the referee broke us with a warning to Oliver I shot a right and left to his mid-section which made him gas

HELP
"There's a fly in that milk pitcher."
Said the funny Mrs. Brown.
"Never mind," replied the waiter, "Scrub him right—just let him down."

Falkville Tilt Not Yet Likely

A Falkville-Independent tilt, a post-season affair, is hardly likely, according to opinions of various Independent players who have looked into the situation. The Independents have no organization this year and with two to three weeks of practice it is not believed that they could present a solid front acting with the precision necessary in football circles. Coach Garrison of Falkville is anxious for a game, which probably would be played at Hartsville, but no decision has yet been given. The game would be played on a percentage basis.

Alabama Turns Lafayette Offer

Local people who have wondered who Alabama would play this year in a post-season affair learn today that the offer won't be with Lafayette. Alabama's eastern eleven, Alabama's officials, turned aside the Lafayette offer for a meeting at the Sesqui-Centennial grounds at Philadelphia. Wallace Wadsworth, who will wait until the team emerges from the season of victories before he decides upon a post-season tilt.

JUST LIKE A MAN

Thud of Pigskin Sounds In Ears of Local Teams As Friday Games Near

Despite a week of off days in old Alma Mater, which cold weather, wet weather and a desire to huddle next to the radiator or stove has played a major role in the minds of football players, Albany and Decatur football followers can get all set to see some fancy football Friday afternoon when Guntersville and Fairview Vocational schools put in an appearance against the Decatur and Albany Hi elevens, respectively.

The local teams have the urge, they are just rarin' to get into the Friday games, confident that they will emerge Friday night with an additional scalp. The lack of practice this week on local grids may be said to have two effects, either it has aided the teams in allowing old wounds to heal, or it has made them totally ill as victory claimants on this Friday. Coaches nor anyone else can say definitely what the effect has been, but the demeanor of players shows considerable difference this week-end, they are apparently going to play football for the love of football and the honor of their schools. That's calculated to make some difference when the score is totaled at the end of the fourth quarter.

Games will be called exactly at three o'clock in order that night-fall may not overtake the bands of players and keep spectators huddled together in the breezy atmosphere for too long a time. The Albany-Fairview game is called at Malone Park, while the Decatur team gets going against Guntersville at Riverside Park.

The strength of invaders is hard to know. Fairview Vocational here and took an unexpected beating from Decatur, but they were blessed with a good fight, who are as much at home in a rough and tumble as they are back on a school books. A fight team can never be counted on until the day is done. Fairview may upset Albany Hi here tomorrow, particularly if they get the jump on the locals.

Guntersville nearly always presents a heavy lineup, folks from that section need a rugged constitution so great are the dangers encountered in crossing the river. Guntersville is a dangerous child's play comparison, the danger needed to neutralize that ferry. So the Guntersville people will not be lacking in fight, fight or determination to win. They are playing on the Decatur field and that's going to have something to do with the verdict, Decatur is no push-over when they can look across the street and see the dear old home.

Tennessee Is Idol of States

That the University of Tennessee is a just claimant to the Southern football title is told in the sport pages of the Knoxville Sunday Journal. The edition fairly reeks with complimentary remarks upon the ability of the Vols, speaking across to their second victories of the year. Both games promise to be hard fought, the better fighter taking toll in victory.

On the sport page there are two heads, one reads, "Vols continue march toward Dixie crown," the other "Crimson Tide nearer Southern Grid Title."

The Journal says "There is yellow peril roaming Dixie grid-rons. That yellow peril is the University of Tennessee football team, and there is no room left to doubt that it is as dangerous as the Crimson Troopers from Tusculoo, for Alabama but a short fortnight back was barely able to humble the Purple Tiger by a score of 2-0."

The Vols are the idols of Knoxville folk as well as being a center of attraction throughout the Southern conference.

Giles May Not Be In The Game

Followers of the Black and Gold are worried over the Guntersville game Friday and are more worried now as a doubt arises as to the ability of Billie Giles, crack end, to perform against the Marshall county invaders.

On the last play of the Decatur-Athens Aggies game, Giles suffered a torn muscle in his leg, putting him on crutches for a few days. He suffered another injury Wednesday afternoon, to the same member.
